

Joint Editorship of North Korean Review and New Call for Papers

The Institute for North Korean Studies (Director Suk Hi Kim) at the University of Detroit Mercy and the Institute for North Korean Studies (Director Yongho Kim) at Yonsei University in Korea have agreed to a joint editorship of North Korean Review (NKR) effective from January 15, 2013. Suk Kim will serve as the founding editor of NKR, while Yongho Kim will serve as the editor of NKR. Yonsei University, founded by American missionaries, is the oldest, the best, and the largest private university in Korea. Yongho Kim (Ph.D., Columbia University, 1992) is Professor of Political Science at Yonsei University. Yonho Kim assumed primary editorial responsibility of NKR starting from the Fall 2014 issue of NKR and has been responsible for providing financial support for editorial and other activities relating to NKR

Editor

Yongho Kim, Yonsei University (South Korea)

Managing Editor

Lonnie Edge, Hankuk University of Foreign Studies (South Korea)

Book Review Editor

Bernhard Seliger, Hanns Seidel Foundation (Germany)

Founding Editor

Suk Hi Kim, University of Detroit Mercy

Editorial Board

Charles Armstrong, Columbia University

Ruediger Frank, University of Vienna (Austria)

Virginie Grzelczyk, Aston University (UK)

Peter Hayes, Nautilus Institute for Security and Sustainability (Australia)

Sven Horak, St. John's University

Jin Woong Kang, Korea University (South Korea)

Liang Tuang Nah, Nanyang Technological University (Singapore)

Andrew Oneil, Griffith University (Australia)

Terrence Roehrig, U.S. Naval War College

Hazel Smith, University of Central Lancaster (UK)

Balazs Szalontai, Kookmin University (South Korea)

Marcus Noland, the Peterson Institute for International Economics

Kyung-Ae Park, the University of British Columbia (Canada)

Andrew Scobell, the Rand Corporation

Publisher

Rhonda Herman, McFarland & Company, Inc., Publishers

Business Manager: Adam Phillips

Business Staff

Shelia Baldwin and Jane Sheets

Production Staff: Phyllis Efford

North Korean Review is edited by YINKS and published twice a year-spring and fall-by McFarland & Company, Inc. Publishers. Box 611, Jefferson, North Carolina 28640 U.S.A 336-246-4460.

ISSN 1551-2789. Robert Franklin, President. Rhonda Herman, executive vice president. Margie Turnmire, director of finance and administration. Steve Wilson, executive editor.

Annual subscription rates are $120 for institutions and $40 for individuals. Subscribers outside the United States add $20 for additional postage. One-year online-only subscriptions are available to all institutions for $100. Subscription inquiries and back issue requests to McFarland by mail at Box 611, Jefferson NC 28640, by phone at 800-253-2187, by fax at 336-246-5018, or online at www.northkoreanreview.com.

Editorial Correspondence should be addressed to Yongho Kim, The Department of Political Science, Yonsei University, Seoul 120-749, South Korea or emailed to nkreview@yonsei.ac.kr.

For additional information, visit www.northkoreanreview.com.

Indexed and abstracted in Scopus, MLA International Bibliography, EBSCO Current Abstracts, Political Science Abstracts, Political Science Complete, Bibliography of Asian Studies (BAS), Ulrich's Web, and Cabell's Directories of Publishing Opportunities in Economics & Finance, Management, and Marketing.

Call for Papers and Style Guide

Call for Papers

North Korean Review (NKR) is a peer-reviewed journal published twice annually by McFarland & Company, Inc. The aims and scope of North Korean Review, the only English-language journal in the world that focuses on North Korea, are to provide a forum for greater understanding of North Korean internal and external affairs. NKR addresses these issues through the lens of focused research, analysis, and dissemination of information. NKR publishes papers that examine North Korea's economics, politics, and international relations.

This international journal welcomes policy-oriented manuscripts of up to 7,000 words and short papers, commentaries, and case studies of up to 3,500 words on North Korean internal and external affairs. Send articles of finance to ink@udmercy.edu and articles of economics, politics and other issues to nkreview@yonsei.ac.kr. To submit an article for possible publication in NKR, please send it as an email attachment in Microsoft Word to the Editor. Authors will receive an email confirmation when their articles are received. Editorial decisions will be sent to authors within 40 days.

Style Guide

1. Format: Please format documents double-spaced in Times New Roman 12 point font using Microsoft Word. Please leave generous margins, avoid right-hand justification, and number pages consecutively.
2. Title Page: The title page of the manuscript should include the title of your paper, your name, affiliation, address, phone number, fax number, email address, a one-paragraph abstract of no more than 100 words, and a few key words of the paper.
3. Biographical Statement: Below the author's contact information, provide a biographical statement of 75 words or fewer to be edited and published in NKR
- 4 Article Classification: Categorize your paper on the Article Title Page, under one of these classifications: * Research paper * Viewpoint * Technical paper * Conceptual paper * Case study * General review.
- 5 Structured Abstract: Authors must supply a structured abstract on the Article Title Page, set out under 4-5 sub-headings * Purpose * Design/methodology/approach * Findings * Practical implications * Originality/value. Maximum is 200 words in total (including keywords and article classification). Please see our website for samples.
4. Headings: NKR uses three levels of headings. Major headings (heading level 1) should be left justified in bold. The first sentence after the heading should be indented. Secondary headings (heading level 2) should be left justified in italic. The first sentence after the heading should be indented. Tertiary headings (heading level 3) should be left justified in italic. The first sentence after the heading should begin on the same line.
5. Tables and Figures: Place each table or figure on a separate page at the end of the text. Indicate the position of the table or figure (e.g., Insert Table 1 here) in the text. The page containing the table or figure should be placed after the page of first mention in the text. Authors are responsible for supplying high quality figures and any other kind of illustrative material.

These may be sent camera-ready as hard copies ready to scan or provided as high resolution images with the email submission. Please forward all materials to the Editor.

6. Endnotes: Use full citation endnotes with no biography or reference list. Endnotes should be brief, used sparingly, and numbered consecutively throughout the text with subscript Arabic Numbers. Please convert all footnotes to the endnote system.

Book

1 Robert Jervis, The Meaning of the Nuclear Revolution: Statecraft and the Prospect of Nuclear Armageddon (Ithaca, NY: Cornell University Press, 1989), p. 167.

Journal

2 David Karl, "Proliferation Pessimism and Emerging Nuclear Powers," International Security 21(3) (1996–97), p. 89.

Website

3 Sangwon Yoon and David Lerman, "Hagel Calls on North Korea to Tone Down Rhetoric," Bloomberg News, April 11, 2013, <http://www.bloomberg.com/news/2013-04-10/south-korea-braces-for-possible-missile-test-from-north-today.html>, accessed January 21, 2014.

Newspaper Article

4 Andrei Lankov, "Stay Cool. Call North Korea's Bluff," New York Times, April 9, 2013.

Footnote

5 The classic optimist-pessimist debate can be found in Scott Sagan and Kenneth Waltz, The Spread of Nuclear Weapons: An Enduring Debate, 3d. ed. (New York: W. W. Norton & Company, 2013). For detailed surveys of the literature more generally, see Peter Lavoy, "The Strategic Consequences of Nuclear Proliferation: A Review Essay," Security Studies 4(4) (1995), pp. 695–753; and Francis Gavin, "Politics, History and the Ivory Tower-Policy Gap in the Nuclear Proliferation Debate," The Journal of Strategic Studies 35(4) (2012), pp. 573–600.

7. One File: Place all components of your paper in the following order in one file: title, biographical statement, article type, structured abstract, a few key words, text, tables and figures, and endnotes.

Questions? Visit www.northkoreanreview.com